Contents
THE REGISTER
of the Kentucky Historical Society

Listed below are the contents of the Register from 1998 to the current issue in a searchable PDF format. The contents of all future issues will be added, and the contents of earlier issues will be added, working backwards from 1998.

VOLUME 96

Number One, Winter 1998

“When the Man Knows Death”: The Civil War Poems of Nathaniel Southgate Shaler
Michael C.C. Adams ................................................................. 1

Willam Morgan Beckner: The Horace Mann of Kentucky
James C. Carper ........................................................................ 29

Bourbon to Bullets: Louisville’s Distilling Industry During World War II, 1941–45
Aaron D. Purcell ......................................................................... 61

Book Reviews ............................................................................... 88

Book Notes .................................................................................... 114

Number Two, Spring 1998

The First False Frontier: Eastern Kentucky and the Movies
Gordon B. McKinney ..................................................................... 19

“May the club work go on Forever”: Home Demonstration and Rural Progressivism in 1920s Ballard County
George B. Ellenberg .................................................................... 137

How Historical Archaeology Works: A Case Study of Slave Houses at Locust Grove
Amy Lambeck Young, Philip J. Carr, and Joseph E. Granger ............................................................................. 167

Book Reviews ............................................................................... 195

Book Notes .................................................................................... 217
Number Three, Summer 1998

Mahlon D. Manson and the Civil War in Kentucky: The Politics of Martial Glory
William J. Kaan .................................................................221

Alben W. Barkley: The Making of the “Paducah Politician”
James K. Libbey ..............................................................249

A Wannabe Historian in World War II
Lowell H. Harrison..........................................................269

The Odyssey of a Historian: Solving Mysteries, Murderous and Otherwise
William E. Ellis .................................................................295

Review Essay: Renewing the History of Kentucky
Stephen Aron .................................................................307

Number Four, Autumn 1998

Success, Failure, and the Guillotine: Don Carlos Buell and the Campaign for the Bluegrass State
Stephen D. Engle ..............................................................315

William English Walling: Kentucky’s Unknown Civil Rights Hero
Berry Craig .................................................................351

Records Everywhere, But How Are They Going to Survive?
John W. Carlin ..............................................................377

Book Reviews .................................................................385

A Word From The Editors..................................................420

Index .................................................................................421

VOLUME  97
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Number One, Winter 1999</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| For Law and Order: Joseph Holt, the Civil War, and the Judge Advocate General’s Department
Gayla Koerting ................................................................. 1 |
| Adventures in Good Eating: Duncan Hines of Kentucky
Emma S. Weigley ................................................................. 27 |
| Vision or Obsession? Arthur E. Morgan and the Superdam
B. Anthony Gannon ............................................................ 45 |
| Moving Kentucky History into the Twenty-first Century: Where Should We Go From Here?
James C. Klotter ................................................................. 83 |
| Correspondence from James Still to Dayton Kohler (1940-59): A Research Note edited by Edward L. Tucker ................................................ 113 |

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Number Two, Spring 1999</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| Kentucky in the Nation’s History
Bob Edwards ................................. 123 |
| Dangerous Situation, Delayed Response: Col. John Bowman and the Kentucky Expedition of 1777
William Dodd Brown .................................................. 137 |
| John Orlando Scott: Scion of the Bluegrass in Peace and War
Hugh Ridenour ............................................................... 159 |
| The Towns of King Coal
Margaret Ripley Wolfe .................................................. 189 |
| Book Reviews ................................................................. 202 |
| Book Notes ................................................................. 236 |

| Number Three, Summer 1999 |
Berea College in the 1870s and 1880s: Student Life at a Racially Integrated Kentucky College
Marion B. Lucas .................................................................1

“An Assurance that Someone Cares”: The Baptist Home for Business Girls, Louisville, Kentucky, 1923-1928
Keith Harper ........................................................................23

Congressman David Grant Colson and the Tragedy of the Fourth Kentucky Volunteer Infantry
Thomas E. Stephens ..........................................................43

Book Reviews ......................................................................103

Book Notes ..........................................................................133

A Word from the Editors ....................................................137

Number Two, Spring 2000

Celebrating the Ordinary: Why Common Folk Should Write Memoir
Linda Scott DeRosier ..........................................................139

Creating Windows of Opportunity: Isaac E. Black and the African American Experience In Kentucky, 1848-1914
Theodore H. H. Harris .......................................................155

“An Intensive School of Disloyalty”: The C. B. Schoberg Case Under the Espionage and Sedition Acts in Kentucky during World War I
Scott A. Merriman .............................................................179

Book Reviews ......................................................................205

Number Three, Summer 2000

The Uncommon Wealth .....................................................239

Kentucky’s Separate Coach Law and African American Response
Anne E. Marshall ...............................................................241

Alben Barkley’s Rise from Courthouse to Congress
Number Four, Autumn 2000

The Uncommon Wealth .................................................................341

Urban Reform in Sin City: The George Ratterman Trial and the Election of 1961 in Northern Kentucky
Jason G. Shearer ...........................................................................343

The Image of Kentucky in Films:
Appearance Versus Reality
Sarah O. Hardin ............................................................................367

Murder, God, and the Devil Box: Music and Community in Metcalfe County, Kentucky
Jennifer K. Painter ........................................................................385

A Woman Rebels? Gender Roles in 1930s Motion Pictures
Julie Human ....................................................................................405

Book Reviews ..............................................................................429

Index .............................................................................................439

VOLUME 99

Number One, Winter 2001

The Uncommon Wealth ...................................................................1

An interview with Governor Ned Breathitt on Civil Rights:
“The most significant thing that I have ever had a part in”
Betsy Brinson and Kenneth H. Williams .................................................. 5

Race Ideology and the Missionary Quest of Lucinda and Mary Helm: What Kentucky Patricians Thought They Knew about the “negro element”
Fred A. Bailey ..................................................................................... 53

Book Reviews ...................................................................................... 69

Book Notes ........................................................................................ 90

Number Two, Spring 2001

The Uncommon Wealth ........................................................................ 95

Happy Chandler and Baseball’s Pivotal Era
William J. Marshall ........................................................................... 99

“What Really Interests Me Are the People”:
Edward M. Coffman on Soldiers, Scholars, and the New Military History
James Russell Harris ........................................................................... 123

Popularizing the Founding: A Review Essay
Lance Banning ................................................................................   153

Book Reviews .................................................................................... 159

Doram Portraits ................................................................................. 208

Number Three, Summer 2001

“All Issues Are Women’s Issues”: An Interview with Governor Martha Layne Collins on Women in Politics
Elizabeth Fraas .................................................................................. 213

The Slow and Unsure Progress of Women in Kentucky Politics
Penny M. Miller .................................................................................. 249

Emma Guy Cromwell and Mary Elliott Flannery: Pioneers for Women in Kentucky Politics
Rebecca S. Hanly ................................................................................ 287

A Dressing Change in the Keeneland Temporary Exhibit
Gallery at the Kentucky History Centre ............................................. 302
The Uncommon Wealth .................................................................423

“Henry Clay represents what this country is about”: A Roundtable Discussion with His Biographer and Editors edited by Kenneth H. Williams and Melba Porter Hay .....................427

Henry Clay’s Legacy to Horse Breeding and Racing
Jeff Meyer .........................................................................................473

Daniel Boone’s American Life: An Interview with Biographer Michael Lofaro
Edited by James Russell Harris and Kenneth H. Williams ...............497

Book Reviews ..................................................................................505

Ashland—The Henry Clay Estate
Kelly B. Hall.......................................................................................583

Index .................................................................................................585

VOLUME 101

Numbers One and Two, Winter/Spring 2003

The Uncommon Wealth .................................................................1

“A Glorious Birthright to Guard”: A History of the Kentucky Historical Society
Thomas E. Stephens ...........................................................................7

Establishing Their Place in the Dynasty: Sophonisba and Mary Breckinridge’s Paths to Public Service
Melanie Beals Goan ............................................................................45

Becoming a Soldier
Charles P. Roland ...............................................................................75

Slavery Ideology and the Underground Railroad in Kentucky: A Review Essay
Number Three, Summer 2003

The Uncommon Wealth ................................................................. 237

The Fayette County School Integration Controversy, 1971–72: Removing the Vestiges of Segregation
David L. Wolford ................................................................. 243

Father John Thayer: Catholic Antislavery Voice In The Kentucky Wilderness
C. Walker Gollar ................................................................. 275

An Opportunity to Meet “Every Kind of Person”: A Kentuckian Views Army Life during World War II
Nancy Disher Baird ................................................................. 297

Book Reviews ................................................................. 319

Number Four, Autumn 2003

The Uncommon Wealth ................................................................. 397

Slavery, the Civil War, and Jefferson Davis: An Interview with William J. Cooper Jr. and Charles P. Roland
Edited by Kenneth H. Williams ................................................................. 401

“I Don’t Fear Nothing in the Shape of Man”: The Civil War and Texas Border Letters of Edward Francis, United States Colored Troops
Edited by Marshall Myers and Chris Propes ................................................................. 457

Reflections on “The Forgotten Troop”: History as a Collaborative Enterprise
Nelson L. Dawson ................................................................. 479

Book Reviews ................................................................. 489

Index ................................................................. 565
Number Three, Summer 2004

The Uncommon Wealth .................................................................283

“The Issues Raised by Vietnam Go to the Very Heart of Who We Think We Are”: An Interview with the University of Kentucky’s George C. Herring
Edited by Kenneth H. Williams .....................................................287

The Joyce Family Murders: Justice and Politics in Know-Nothing Louisville
David L. Baker ............................................................................357

Christopher Waldrep .................................................................383

Number Four, Autumn 2004

The Uncommon Wealth .................................................................457

Life on the Kentucky Frontier: A Roundtable Discussion
edited by Kenneth H. Williams .....................................................461

The Many Lives of Daniel Boone
Michael A. Lofaro .......................................................................489

Daniel Boone As American Icon: A Literary View
Richard Taylor ..............................................................................513

Daniel Boone the Surveyor: Old Images and New Realities
Neal O. Hammon and James Russell Harris ..............................535

Book Reviews ..............................................................................567
Index ........................................................................................................... 595

VOLUME 103
Numbers One and Two, Winter/Spring 2005
Thomas D. Clark Memorial Issue

The Uncommon Wealth .................................................................................. 1

Part I: Writings (all articles by Clark)

Autobiographical
Growing Up With the Frontier ................................................................. 11
Big River ................................................................................................. 23
The Book Thieves of Lexington: A Reminiscence .................................. 47

Kentuckiana
Kentucky: Land of Tomorrow ............................................................... 67
Traveling Church .................................................................................. 75
Holy Rollers ......................................................................................... 93

Southern History
The Rural South As Seen in Two of its Institutions: The Country Store and the Rural Weekly ................................................................. 109
The Common-Man Tradition in the Literature of the Frontier ................. 125
Preservation of Southern Historical Documents ..................................... 143
Agriculture Entry from the Encyclopedia of Southern Culture ............... 159

Education
Serious Threats to American Education from Fanatic Fringes and Critics .................................................................167
Statement to the Special Committee to Investigate Education in Kentucky, 1960 .................................................................173

Kentucky Politics
Constitution-Making in Kentucky in Retrospect .................................. 185
The Dead Hand of Heedless Partisanism ............................................ 193

Part II: Commentary

Clark on His Writings .............................................................................201
Clark on World Affairs ........................................................................... 235
Clark on Civil Rights in Mississippi .................................................... 251
Clark and Literary Figures ................................................................... 271
Clark Advice on Life in the Academy .................................................. 299
Clark on History and Historians ......................................................... 305
Clark on Kentucky History and Historians ........................................... 333
Clark on Kentucky Politics ................................................................... 349
Clark and the University of Kentucky ................................................377
Clark and the Lyman Johnson Case ..................................................407
Clark and John W. Oswald ..............................................................421
Clark on UK and Collegiate Athletics .............................................445

Number Three, Summer 2005

The Uncommon Wealth .................................................................461

“Almost Like a Storybook”: A Childhood in Frankfort, Kentucky, 1901-1911
edited by Virginia Van der Veer Hamilton ......................................465

The Making of a Kentucky Architect and Entrepreneur:
Insights into the Life of Matthew Kennedy
Francis D. Pitts III ...........................................................................493

Recent Historiography of Guerrilla Warfare in the Civil War—A Review Essay
James A. Ramage ...........................................................................517

Book Reviews ..................................................................................543

Obituaries: Lance Banning, Anne Fitzgerald, and George Yater ..........................................................617