

Kentucky in Color

John J. Audubon

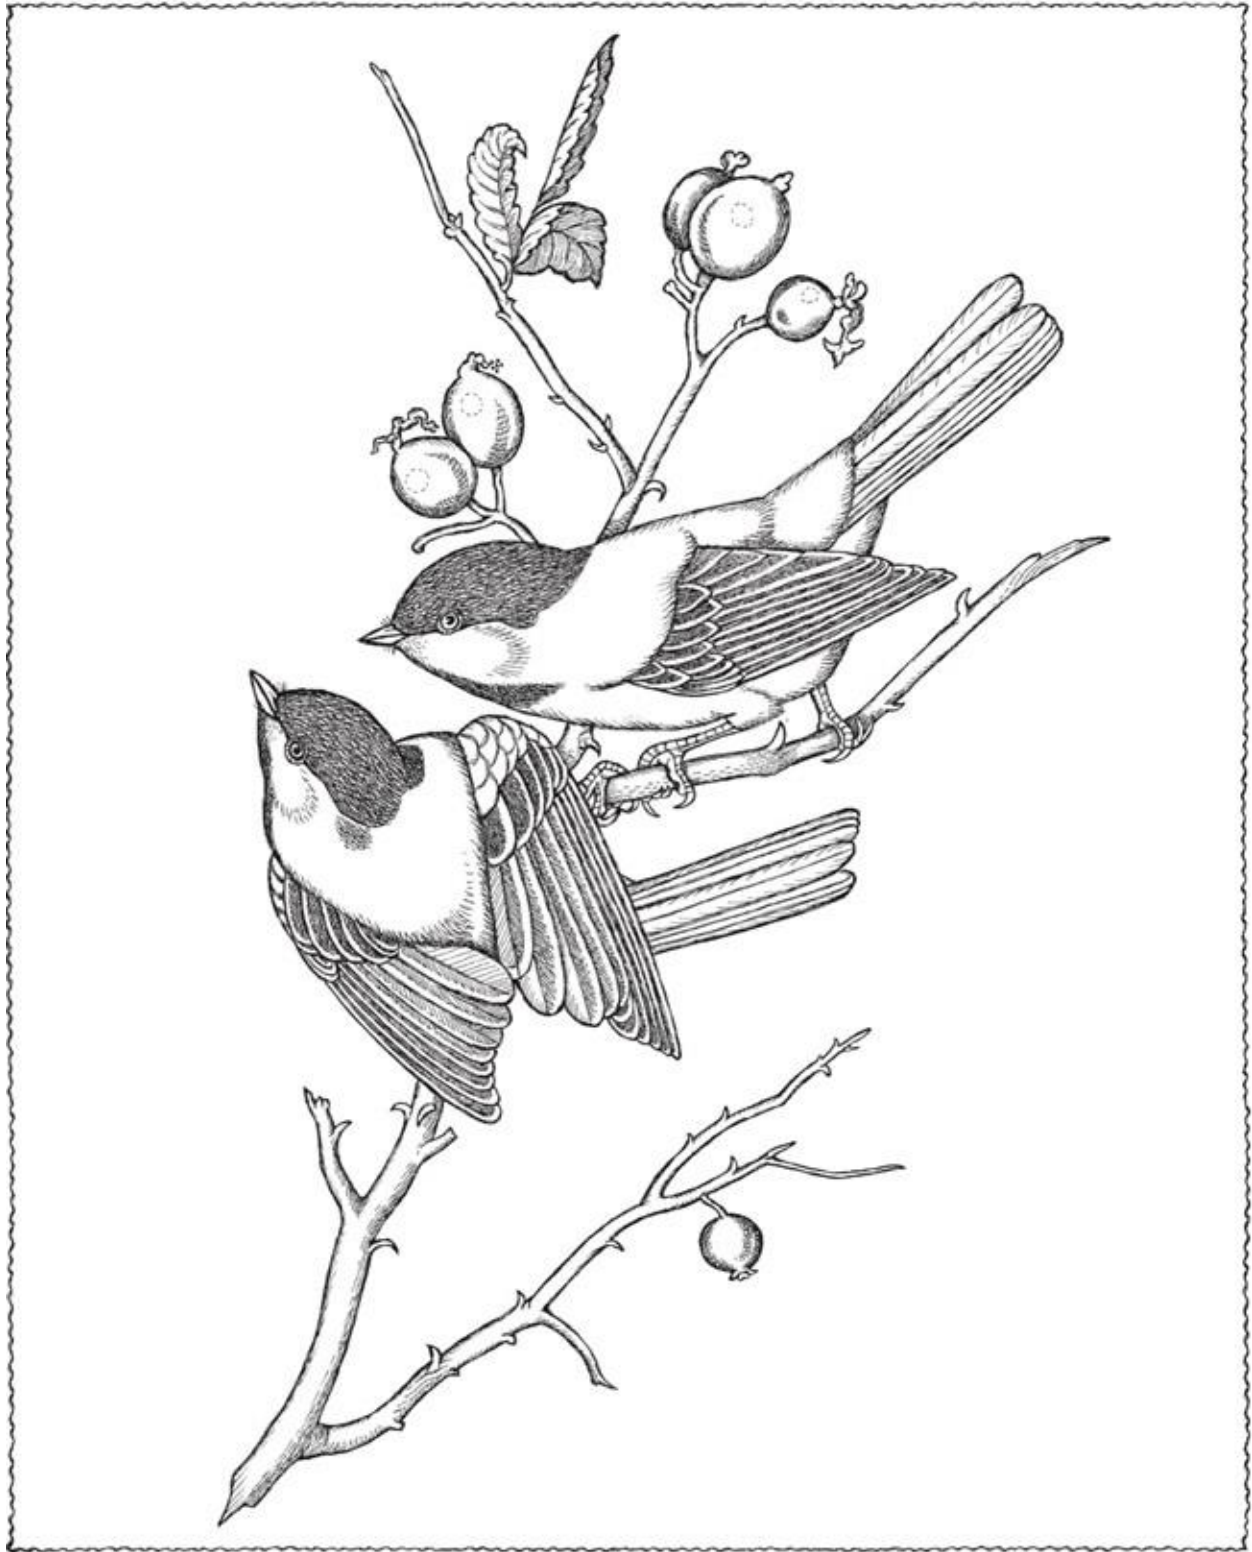

is best known for his paintings of nature, especially birds, and his publication, "Birds of America." Audubon traveled across the country in his attempt to study and compile records of all North American birds, but some of his greatest advancements in ornithology occurred while roaming the Kentucky wilderness in Henderson County.

Coloring Pages provided by

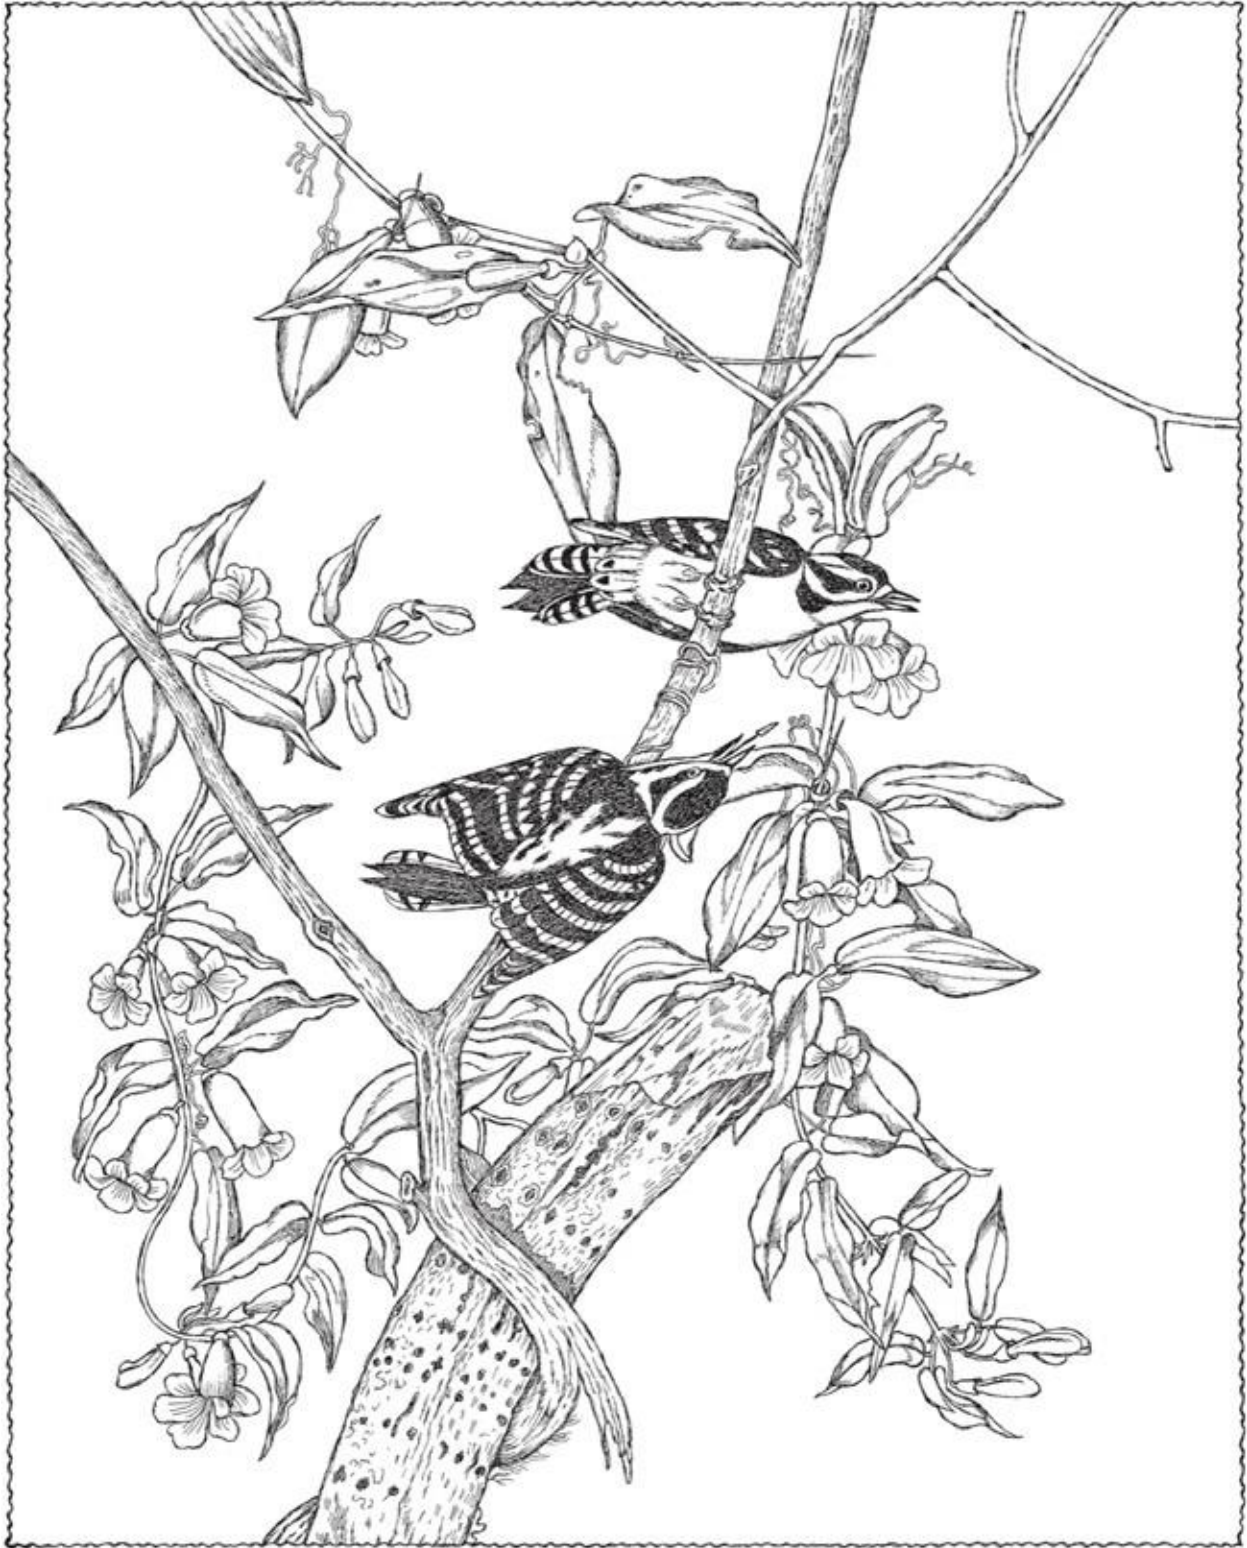

Kentucky
HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Barn swallow

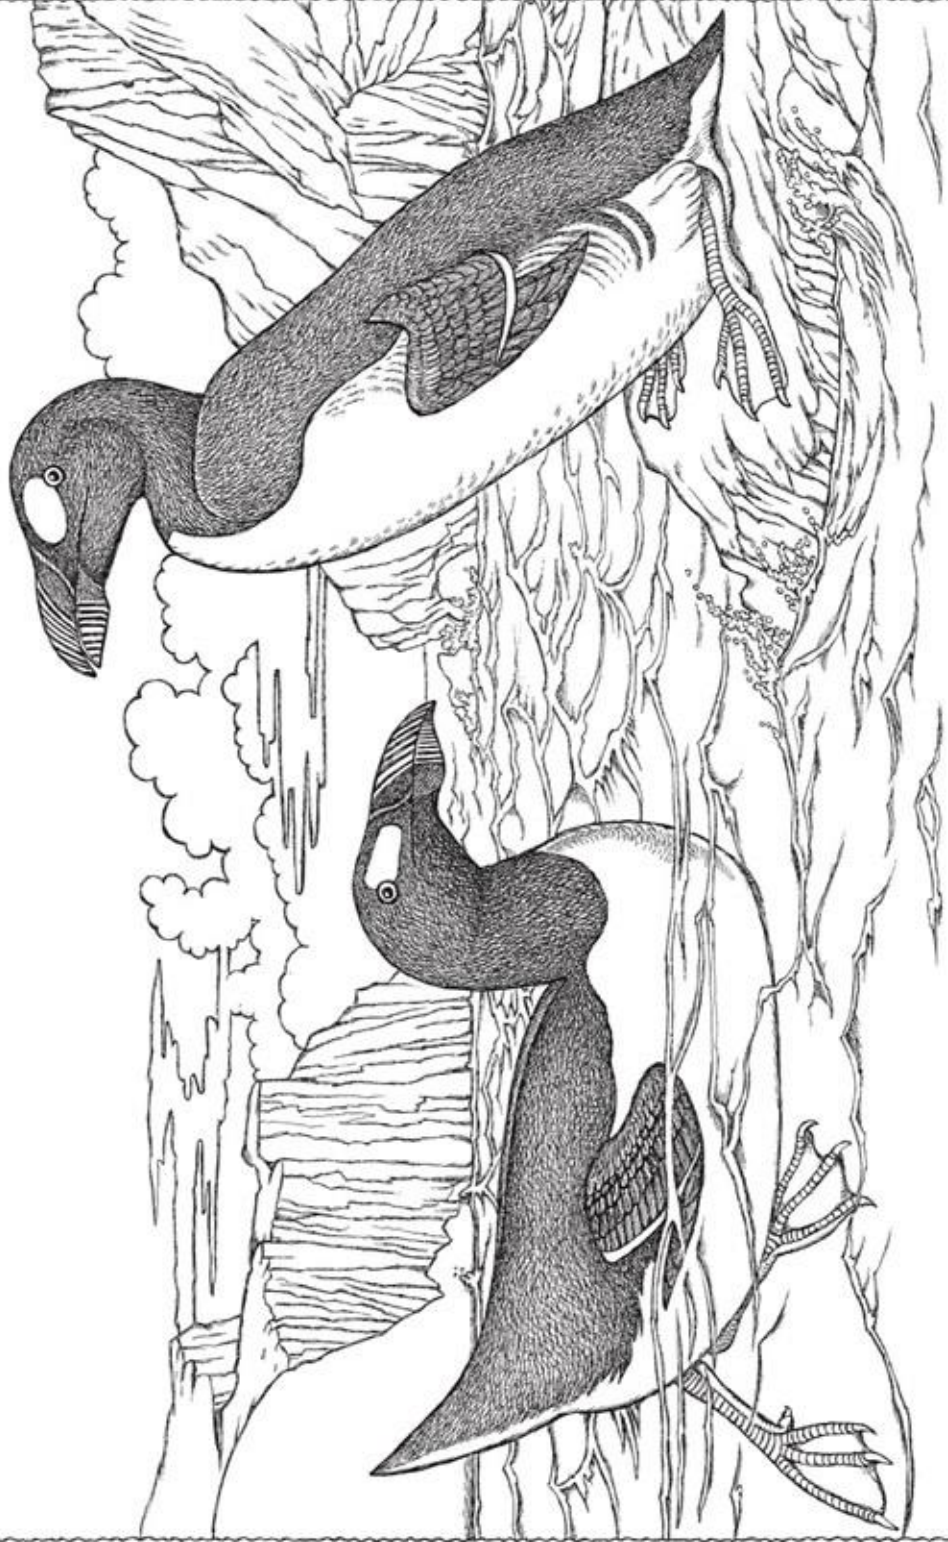

Black-capped chickadee

Downy woodpecker

Great auk

Anna's hummingbird